Mr. D. B. Strouse, of Salem, was in the city yesterday.

Mr. J. E. Tennyson returned yesterday from Lynchburg.

Mr. S. J. Dyer, real estate agent, of Carnegie City, was here yesterday.

Mr. O. S. Englewood, of Lynchburg, a brother of Al. Englewood, of Hot Springs, is here.

Mr. W. G. McDowell, a real estate agent, of Buena Vista, was here yesterday.

Mr. John T. Windle, of Hammond Printing Works, is visiting friends in Lexington.

Mr. Charles B. Harris, of Scottsville, Albemarle county, is visiting friends in Vinton.

Mr. R. S. Boswell, of Washington, is here in the interest of the phonograph company.

Mr. T. L. Alford, the insurance man of Richmond, is at Hotel Roanoke.

Mr. R. E. Pedigo was here yesterday looking hands for work on the railroad at Big Stone Gap.

Mr. W. H. Kinnier, of Kinnier Co., who has been seriously ill for several weeks, is out again.

The plumbing establishment of Fuqua and Boas has been removed to No. 401 South Jefferson Street.

Four new coal cars for the Roanoke Mining Company were put on the track yesterday.

Mr. W. H. Spickard, postmaster of Blue Ridge Springs, was in the city yesterday.

Mr. J. M. Maupin returned from visit to relatives in Albemarle county, accompanied by his mother.

The alarm of fire last night, at 11 o'clock, caused by the explosion of a lamp in a house near the gas works.

The Roanoke Machine Works finished twenty gondolas for the Norfolk and Western railroad yesterday.

Mr. G. A. Vaiden, of the firm of Tanner, Vaiden & Co., is quite ill at his residence on Fourth avenue.

Mr. Mike Welsh had the first fling of his right hand out in the playing mill at the Machine Works yesterday.

Mr. J. S. Moon, a prominent banker of Scottsville, Albemarle county, passed through the city en route to Salem.

Mr. Francis T. Brinkley, late of the Land Improvement Company, left yesterday for his new home, Bristol, Tenn.

Mr. T. C. Percival and wife, of Lynchburg, accompanied by Miss Anna Goodman, are stopping at Hotel Felix.

Captain W. O'Brien returned yesterday from Bramwell. He has the contract for laying off the new position of the city.

Mr. W. L. Ludwig, of the real estate firm of Francis B. Kemp & Co. returned yesterday from a business trip to North Carolina.

Today is the last chance voters will have to register. See to it that your name is enrolled, or the right of suffrage will be denied you.

Mr. T. R. Davis, the Norfolk and Western railroad engineer who has his leg broken some time ago, is recovering very rapidly.

The sale of stamps by Deputy Collector of Internal Revenue J. S. Patten for the month of May to date amounted to about $200.

Mr. J. H. Harbinger, traveling salesman for G. L. Stevens, left yesterday for a business trip through Southwest Virginia.

Reubin Harris was fined $1 by Mayor Evans yesterday for disturbing the quiet and good order of the city, and John Harston $15 for a similar offense.

Mr. W. D. Duiguid, of Lynchburg, has in his employ the woman who attended the Siamese twins in their illness.

Mr. J. T. Kennedy, civil engineer formerly partner of Mr. W. M. Dunham, city engineer of Roanoke, died at Bluefield, West Va., yesterday morning.

Mr. A. McD. Smith, of Vinton, returned yesterday from a visit to his son, J. D. Smith, who is attending the law school at the University of Virginia.

Richard, the infant son of Mr. R. P. LeGrand, died Sunday morning and was buried at Appomattox Court House yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Mr. W. H. Mackay has just placed in the engine house an improved fire alarm box of the Vindicator system. The system is a very complete one and it is probable that the fire department will adopt it. Mr. Mackay is general agent for Roanoke.

A wreck occurred in the West End yard Sunday morning. The two engines with heavy trains attached collided knocking one car off the track and badly breaking up three others. The train hands all jumped and no one was hurt.

Eliza Whorey was fined $10 by Acting Mayor Evans yesterday for disturbing the quiet and good order of the city. She didn't like the mayor's sentence and began to kick vigorously, so he added an additional fine of $10 for contempt of court.

At a meeting of the Radford School held Sunday evening the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, G. May; treasurer, I. Bachrach; secretary, Levine. The order is in a very healthy condition.

Mr. C. E. Chaffin, a fireman on the Norfolk and Western road, fell from a box car on Southside Island ear Sunday morning and fractured his skull and collar bone. He was attended by Dr. Dillard, of Lynchburg. Mr. Chaffin resides at Bonsack, about five miles below the city.

East bound passenger train No. 4 of the Norfolk and Western Railroad ran over and killed a negro man just west of the Lynchburg tunnel. The man was sitting up above the mouth of the tunnel and fell off just as the train approached. No blame is atached to the company.

Murrel Ross, a colored laborer, was before Justice Hovine yesterday charged with stealing a watch valued at $12 from Charles Lowry, on Railroad avenue, Saturday night. The evidence was strong against him; he was sent on to await the action of the grand jury at the June term.

A big picnic took place yesterday on the bank of Tinker creek, near the river. It was given in honor of the birthday of Miss Mamie Berkeley of Vinton. Quite a large crowd of Roanoke young folks attended. The dinner was splendid and taken beneath a big beech tree, was thoroughly enjoyed.

Hastings Court.

The following cases were disposed of by Judge Robertson yesterday morning:

J. H. Featherstone qualified as a notary public.

Judge Robertson rendered his decision in the divorce case of Brent against Brent, refusing to grant a divorce to the plaintiff.

Dr. E. T. Hamilton was appointed administrator of her late husband, Wm. J. Hamilton, and qualified as such.

W. C. Lowry, who was indicted for misdemeanor, was bailed in the sum of $500.

AN OLD NEWSPAPER CLIPPING.

The Troubles of a Publisher in the Eighteenth Century.

A quaint old newspaper clipping, illustrative of journalistic enterprise in the good old colonial days, has come to light in this town. It is from The Connecticut Gazette and bears the date of July 5, 1765. This paper was the first published in New Haven colony, and the first number appeared in 1755, over a hundred years after Connecticut was entered by the colonies. Dr. Franklin was at that time connected with The Gazette. The clipping in part is as follows:

A year is past since the printer of this paper published proposals for reviving The Connecticut Gazette. 'Tis needless to mention the reasons why it did not appear sooner. A sample of it is now sent abroad in order to collect a sufficient number of subscribers to barely pay the charge for carrying it on. When such a number appears it shall be printed weekly and delivered to subscribers in town and country at the rate of two pence for each paper, which is eight shillings eight pence for one year. And no addition shall be made to the price when the stamp takes effect, if it is then encouraged so as to be afforded at that rate.

Subscribers are not desired to engage for any particular time, so that they can stop at any time. A special notice is appointed to carry it out of the common post roads. Advertisements shall be printed at a moderate charge according to their length.

All kinds of provisions, fire wood and other suitable country produce will be taken as pay, of those who cannot spare money, if delivered at the printer's dwelling house, or at any other place which may be so notified.

The printer hereby invites the benevolence of all parties to send him accounts of whatever novelties they think may be useful to their countrymen. The shortest hints on some subjects, however written, will be gratefully received and faithfully communicated to the public, if convenient.

Besides the help he hopes to receive from his correspondents, this colony and elsewhere, the printer has sent for three sorts of English magazines, The Monthly Review, New Books and one of the Best London newspapers; these, together with American Intelligence from Nova Scotia to Georgia, inclusive, and also from Canada, cannot fail to furnish him with a constant stock of momentous materials and fresh advice to fill this Gazette. Benjamin McClen, at the Postoffice, New Haven.—New Haven Cor. New York Times.

Venus as the Evening Star.

Venus is an inferior planet—that is to say, her orbit lies within the orbit of the earth. Viewed from the earth, she seems to oscillate in straight lines, east and west of the sun. She became evening star at her superior conjunction, when having passed the sun she appeared on his eastern side. She has been moving eastward since, and has now emerged from invisibility.

She reaches her greatest eastern elongation on Sept. 23, when, as if bound to the sun by an invisible chain, she can go no farther, and retraces her steps toward him. She reaches her period of greatest brilliancy on Oct. 29, being visible in full sunlight. Her radiance lessens after this event, and she reaches her inferior conjunction on Dec. 3, when she passes between the sun and the earth, and completes her course as evening star.

The present reign of Venus occurs when serene nights and peaceful influences make the study of the heavens attractive. No scientific knowledge is needed to follow her steps. She moves east and west, her course still she reaches the sun. This is the whole story, and an intelligent observer can easily follow her track with the help of the dates here given.—Youth's Companion.

The harvest tariff on tin plate is some of the pies that ornament it.
